BILL STRIKES AT MEXICO

Proposed Compromise Would Empower Harding to End Tax When Advisable.

Special Despatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD.

New York Herald Bureau, } Washington, D. C., July 12. A fight over the protective duties on oil in the Fordney tariff bill rivalling the famous Republican battle over the wool schedule during debate on the Payne-Aldrich bill in 1909 now appears probable in the House.

The views of President Harding, contained in a letter to Mr. Fordney, that oil should be left on the free list, in order that the policy of the Administration in encouraging American capital to develop oil resources in foreign lands might not be interfered with, caused a sensation among House members to-day. An attack on the oil duties is expected

"By this legislation you are adding to the fight, the latter asserting that by "the gage rule method of legislation" the House had "sunk into a condition beneath contempt" and that it no longer was resarded by the country as a serious legislative body.

Republicans, on the other hand, contended that the rule was the most liberal and broadest of any ever brought to arouse in the minds of the people a genuine respect for law observance."

"By this legislation you are adding to the number of those already engaging in plements in this country, the Secretary acid, and you cannot go no in this way and expect to arouse in the minds of the people a genuine respect for law observance."

JANITOR IS CONVICTED OF DISTILLING WHISKEY

Detective Says He Found Plant in Basement.

Carl Haftman, lanitor of an apartment house at 528 West litth street, was convicted yesterday of being a home distiller by a jury before Justice Henry V. Borst in the Extraordinary Term of the Supreme Court.

Detective Thomas Carlin testified that tenants of the building had complained that whiskey was being manufactured in the basement and that he called at the place on April 12. He said he knocked on the door and was told by Haftman to come in. A small still was confiscated with a few quarts of homemade hooch.

There has been a notable absence of storms all over the world and especially in this country. The air has sunk into the doldrums.

The usual movement of cold air from the polar regions to displace hot air rising from the earth's seurface has not taken place. What has been needed is a general stirring up of the atmosphere much the same as a pool of water is stirred by a stone thrown into it.

During the last six weeks the only Worldwide stagnation of the atmos-phere is the cause of the unusual heat
